3. APPLICATION, ISSUED, AND REVISION PERMIT EXPIRATIONS
Applications for permits become null and void 365 days from the original application date if the permit is not issued. Without further notice, all submitted documents are disposed of unless requested to be returned. Plans and documents will not be mailed back at any time during the process and must be "picked up" at the Building Division offices during business hours.
The applicant may withdraw an application at any time by written notice and a partial refund may be issued if the plan check has not been initiated. Fees may be refunded as established by the El Dorado County Building Fee Schedule.
The applicant is responsible for providing information required by other agencies during the application process.
No application in the Tahoe Basin shall be accepted after 180 days from the allocation acceptance date.
Once issued, the permit will expire two years from the original date of issuance. The permit holder is responsible for this date as no other expiration notification will be given by the County.
A permit may be renewed for an additional one-year period prior to or within 30 days after the expiration date, provided the permit holder has acted in good faith to pursue construction and has regularly completed inspections during the two-year period. The permit holder may apply for a second one-year permit extension, subject to the provisions above.
The permit holder may apply for a permit reactivation after the four-year permit period, if the project has not received a final inspection approval and the permitted structure is not occupied Revisions – Revisions on applications still need to meet the requirements as noted above for applications. Revisions to issued permits will be placed into a status of 'Revision' which will halt inspections from proceeding until the Revision is either withdrawn or approved and the permit is re-issued in accordance with the requirements as noted above for issued permits.
